Cardinal O'Connor's 35th Anniversary

On June 1st, United for Life attended the Sisters of Life Celebration of the legacy of their founder, Cardinal John J. O'Connor, held at St. Vincent Ferrer High School, New York City. Cardinal O'Connor, who served as the Archdiocese of New York's eighth Archbishop from 1984-2000, established the Sisters of Life in 1991.

He beautifully expressed what he saw in each of us,

"I see in each one of you, whatever you may have been in your past, whatever your circumstances at the moment, the reflection of the sacred, the image and likeness of Almighty God. I see you as sacred persons to be loved, persons of priceless dignity and worth.

Indeed I may very well see you as being far better persons than some of you may see yourselves to be...To underestimate you is to underestimate God, for each of you is sparked with His divinity."

Cardinal John J. O'Connor
